when more than one egg is released and they are both fertilized, a woman will give birth to fraternal twins if both embryos develop the first is what we often do: adapt it to fit our existing models of care